Capitalism And Modernity The Great

The history of capitalism has diverse and much debated roots, but fully-fledged capitalism is generally thought to have emerged in Northwestern Europe, especially in the Low Countries (mainly present-day Flanders and Netherlands) and Great Britain, in the sixteenth to seventeenth centuries. Over the following centuries, capital has accumulated by a variety of different methods, in a variety of ...

Modernity, a topic in the humanities and social sciences, is both a historical period (the modern era), as well as the ensemble of particular socio-cultural norms, attitudes and practices that arose in the wake of the Renaissance—in the "Age of Reason" of 17th-century thought and the 18th-century "Enlightenment". Some commentators consider the era of modernity to have ended by 1930, with ...

Modernity, the self-definition of a generation about its own technological innovation, governance, and socioeconomics. To participate in modernity was to conceive of one's society as engaging in organizational and knowledge advances that make one's immediate predecessors appear antiquated or, at least, surpassed.

While likely to be a very controversial list, we are in the middle of one of Capitalism's favorite seasons: Christmas, so it seems fitting to publish it on Christmas Eve. After the death of feudalism in the 19th century a choice was presented to the world: would the new politico-economic system be capitalism, communism, the "Third Way" or an obscure alternative?

Helen Pluckrose and James Lindsay talk with EconTalk host Russ Roberts about their essay on the enemies of modernity. Pluckrose and Lindsay argue that modernity—by which they mean democracy, reason, and individual liberty—is under attack from pre-modern and post-modern ideological enemies. They discuss why modernity is under attack and encourage people on the political left [...]

Focusing on Damien Hirst's The Physical Impossibility of Death in the Mind of Someone Living 1991 which contains a preserved shark, this paper explores the longer cultural resonance of sharks as exemplars of the natural sublime. The paper argues that the shark, in Hirst's work and elsewhere, is a figure which intertwines an aesthetic of terrible nature with the capitalist sublime.
