Joseph Smith Family Home Evening

From the Life of Joseph F. Smith. To President Joseph F. Smith, his family was precious, indeed priceless. He spoke often and eloquently of the “divinely ordained home” and said that “the very foundation of the kingdom of God, of righteousness, of progress, of development” is established in the home. 1 In 1915 President Smith and his Counselors introduced a weekly home evening program ...

Chapter 39: Strengthening Families in Family Home Evenings

In family home evening on Monday, we first met Joseph Smith (Matthew, our very proud two-year-old) and his family (the rest of us). Then we went from room to room as Joseph and his family listened to different “preachers.” My husband and I alternated the preacher role—he in one room, I in the next.
